Isla Vista Conference set for May 19th & 20th

The Beloved Community

By Shelly Leachman, Excerpt from The UC Santa Barbara Current

EXPLORING THE HISTORY OF ISLA VISTA TO ENCOURAGE COMMUNITY COHESION a conference, free to the public, will be held May 19th and 20th. The event will be titled “The Beloved Community.”

With a focus on learning through community engagement, the conference will cover a range of topics of importance to the Isla Vista community, all to be explored through the lenses of equity, inclusion, and activism, according to Diana Collins Puente, Isla Vista Community Advisor with Associated Students at UCSB and co-chair of the conference organizing committee. “It is important to recognize the multifaceted beauty of this community and the incredible efforts underway that are often not seen or honored,” Puente noted. “We have the opportunity to nurture a different narrative that recognizes and builds on the tremendous assets that we have — individually and collectively — that supports the self-determination of Isla Vista, and that creates spaces where this collective work can be done.”

The event will kick off with an art exhibition and reception 4 to 7pm Friday, May 19th, and continue 8:30am to 8:30pm on Saturday, May 20th, with a variety of presentations, talks, workshops, and recreational activities to showcase the people, the history, the ideas, and the places that make up this “beloved community.”

The simple end goal, said organizer Paola Dela Cruz, is for participants to walk away with a “written manifestation of what they commit to do over the next year to engage in Isla Vista through those principles of equity, inclusion, and activism.

“This conference is significant because it allows students to engage in activism that fosters honest and meaningful community engagement,” said Dela Cruz, a UCSB student and Puente’s committee co-chair.

Launched in 2016, the initial idea for the conference stemmed from a broad desire to engage the Isla Vista community in dialogue, education, and action. Coming at a pivotal time in local history, after the tragedy of May 2014 and subsequent culture shift in Isla Vista, Beloved Community was — and is — meant to serve as a tangible expression of what such a community can and should be. The idea has resonated so deeply, said Puente, that it is being expanded beyond the conference into a year-round initiative.
